C.T SCAN BRAIN PLAIN

- Drain is placed.
- Frontotemporal craniotomy defect noted on left side.
- There is evidence large ill defined hyperdense area surrounded by hypodense edema noted in left parietotemporal region. It is causing effacement of brain parenchyma and compressive effect on ipsilateral lateral ventricle along with midline shift of about 0.8cm. Findings are suggestive of intracerebral hemorrhage. Further gyriform hyperdensities also noted in left parietotemporal cortex. Would recommend clinical correlation.
- Left inferior turbinate hypertrophy noted.
- Basal ganglia & thalamus are normal.
- Posterior cranial fossa is normal.

CONCLUSION:

- Above described findings are suggestive of intracerebral hematoma. Would recommend clinical correlation.
